Monitoring Analysis Summary

This table shows instruments traded by Islandbridge. When striving to achieve the best result for a particular order, Islandbridge will use its knowledge, experience and judgement, taking into consideration a range of different factors that include not just price, but also the costs incurred in the transaction, the need for timely execution, the liquidity of the market, the size of the order and the nature of the financial transaction, including whether it is executed on a regulated market or over-the-counter.

Islandbridge's procedures are designed to obtain the best possible result for orders executed on behalf of clients, subject to the nature of the order and the nature of the markets. A range of factors can influence the execution of a trade and a simple evaluation of the price achieved for a transaction may not always be sufficient to determine whether or not the 'best result' has been obtained. A range of possible execution factors may be considered and these include the price, liquidity in the market, costs, speed, likelihood of execution or settlement, size of the order, nature of the order and any other consideration relevant to the efficient execution of the order. Islandbridge determines the relative importance of each factor using criteria such as Client's regulatory client classification, the characteristics and nature of the order, the characteristics of the financial instruments that are subject to your order and the characteristics of the execution venues to which order can be directed. Ordinarily the price will merit a high relative importance in obtaining the best possible result for professional clients. The next most important factor after price is typically liquidity of the market. However, in certain circumstances, for some client orders, financial instruments or markets, Islandbridge may decide that other factors may be more important in determining the best possible execution result in accordance with this Best Execution Policy.
